

THE LIVINGSTON

ENTERPRISE

Wednesday, September 25, 2013 • Livingston, Montana • Vol. 102 No. 250

Construction along Fleshman Creek

Enterprise photo by Shawn Reekin

Guy Seely, a worker with Sime Construction, brushes off the surface of a newly-installed barrel section of a new lift station off Fleshman Creek near the Mike Webb G Street Park in south Livingston, Wednesday morning. Construction along the creek is part of the ongoing Fleshman Creek Restoration Project. This week, a new sewer system is being installed, with the pipe work being done next week. Cole Ypma, project superintendent with Sime Construction, said they will work through the fall on the project, which includes some bridge work along a one-mile stretch of Fleshman Creek through town.

Livingston Enterprise

September 25, 2013